AS SEVEN ALLIED armies continue to surge towards the heart of Germany, Hitler is reported to have summoned the Nazi gauleiters to his Alpine fastness at Berchtesgaden to consider the situation in the light of the disaster rapidly engulfing the Reich.

The decisions of that meeting may be momentous. It seems obvious that both surrender and continued resistance are being considered. Thus far there has been no sign that the dictator has abandoned his determination to fight to a finish.

Hitler's scheme for saving his own skin and for perpetuating Nazism—both condemned to liquidation by the Allies—is grotesque. His program, as it comes to us via the Swiss press, is based on the theory that Allied victory (which he admits is certain) will be followed by European chaos. This will be caused by "unrestrained appetites for power," "social unrest and civil war."

The Nazi chief is said to have completed preparations to hole-up in the fortified salt-mines and other defenses of the Berchtesgaden area. There, with picked Nazi elite troops which he already is calling in, he will make a stand against the Allies until the predicted chaos provides soil in which Nazism can again be planted. Thus Germany and Hitlerism will come into their own again.

We must recognize at once that there will be grave disorganization in Europe. There's chaos now, for Hitler has disrupted virtually the whole continent. Already there has been civil strife—and there will be more, due to social and political problems.

However, the Allies have safeguards to keep the situation from getting out of hand. They've laid their plans not only for maintenance of order but for regeneration of the stricken nations. Hitler should remember (and probably

U. S. WARSHIPS, PLANES RAIN BLOWS ON JAPS

Paralyze Enemy Lines In Homeland Area; Cebu Reported Invaded

BY LEONARD MILLMAN
Associated Press Editor

American invasion of Cebu in the Central Philippines and the Kerama islands in the Ryukyus chain was reported by Japanese communiques today as U. S. warships and every type of warplane attacked along 1,000 miles of enemy island.

Superiority of southern Japan shortly before noon Tuesday. Japanese broadcasts said U. S. Fifth fleet air and naval bombardments of the Ryukyus, from Kyushu to Formosa, were continuing today.

Philippines bombers continued neutralizing raids on Formosa airfields. Tokyo said a second American tank force of 10 cruisers shelled Pratas, a tiny island midway between the Philippines and Hong Kong.

The Kerama islands lie 15 and 20 miles west of Okinawa in the center of the American carrier plane and naval gun bombardments of the Ryukyus which began Saturday.

Silent On Invasion

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the attacks continued Monday, with battleships concentrating their guns on Okinawa, largest of the Ryukyus. He made no mention of landings nor of Sunday, the day the Japanese said the Keramas were invaded.

The Mikado's high command claimed five large U. S. warships were sunk, five damaged and 154 raiding planes shot down. Tokyo radio said the number of attacking American planes had increased from approximately 250 last Friday to 1,120 yesterday.

These reports were without American confirmation. So was the Nipponese communique reporting U. S. assault waves landing on Cebu.

Gen. MacArthur reported 14,853 more Japanese have been killed in the Philippines in the last 10 days and 171 taken prisoner. He estimates 297,024 Japanese casualties in the Philippines.

More than 200 Marianas-based B-29s hit airfields as well as industrial targets on Kyushu.

Good news for Japan came only from the Central China front, about 1,000 miles northwest of Okinawa. Japanese columns pushing toward the 14th U. S. air force's base at Loahokow were slowed up. General Nipponese advances were reported on a 90 mile front in Honan province.

Motorist Hits Airplane (On Truck), Is Arrested

Three persons were fined in Mayor R. R. Johnson's court yesterday following their arrests by state patrolmen, one as the result of an accident.

Kenneth Kingher, 28, of East Palestine, was fined $50 and costs for failing to obey a signal to stop given by patrolmen who were escorting a truck shipment of military planes through this section.

The driver failed to stop and struck the wing stub of one of the ships. George Hinchcliff, 21, of Youngstown, was fined $5 and costs for driving with insufficient lights.

William Bauman, 18, of Damascus, was fined $10 and costs for driving with an improper license. He was operating a car on a temporary driver's permit and was not accompanied by a licensed driver.

Pre-School Development Of Child Is PTA Topic

The importance of pre-school development of the child was stressed by Dr. Wilda Rosebrook of Columbus, who is in the department of special education at Ohio State university, when she spoke at a meeting of the McKinley school Parent-Teacher association last night at the school.

Dr. Rosebrook's subject was "Some Aids for Understanding Children." The meeting was well attended.

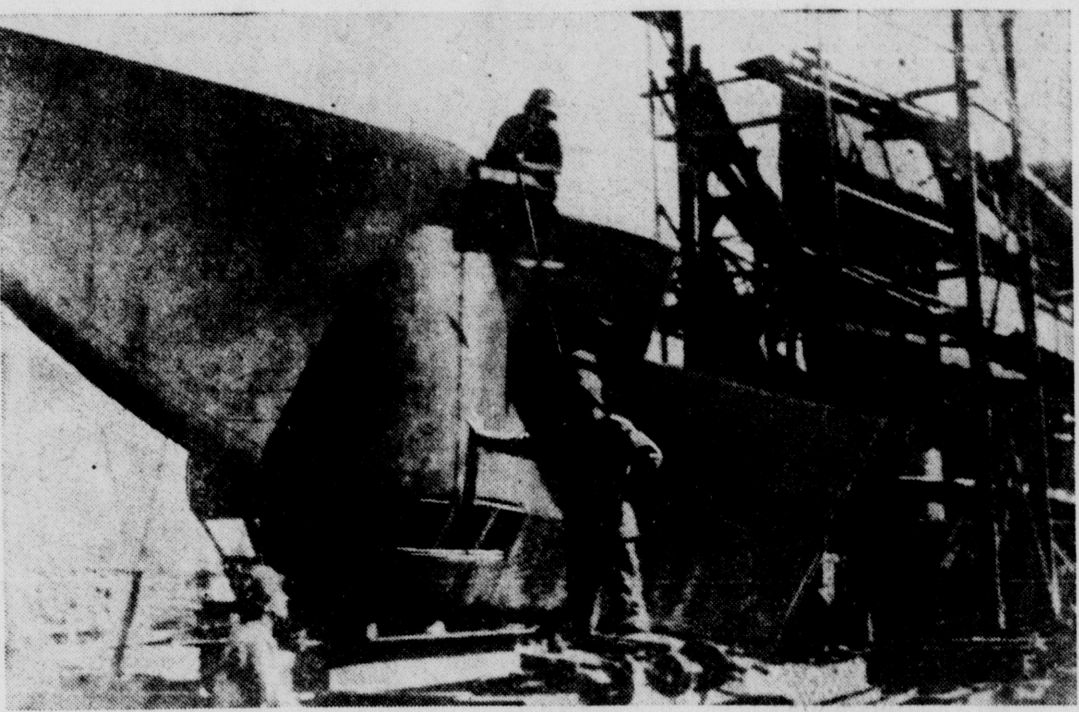

Lunch was served by the mothers of children in the third and fourth grades.

SEBRING, March 27.—Declaring that the 10 p. m. curfew for children under 16 would be vigorously enforced, Mayor E. F. Harman today said that parents of offending children will be held responsible.

RAISE $34,000 FOR RED CROSS

Salem Exceeds War Fund Quota of $32,300 By $1,700 Margin

Salem today had built over the top by a $1,700 margin in its campaign to raise $32,300 for the Red Cross War Fund.

Total receipts, in cash and pledges, total $34,000, Chairman Carl Wilman reported.

Cash on hand amounts to $27,000, Wilman said, with the balance to be made up through payroll deductions in industries by April 15.

Subscriptions were still coming in today to aid the mercy organization in carrying on its gigantic war relief program. Persons or groups who might have been missed in the canvass, which opened a month ago, are urged to telephone the Red Cross office in the Memorial building, 5219.

Organization pledges to the Red Cross this year were higher and the shops showed substantial increases over previous years' contributions, campaign leaders pointed out.

The Red Cross needs were greater this time because of increased burdens in all theaters of war and the additional task of sending supplies to prisoners of war.

COPE ELECTED HEAD OF SALEM TEACHERS

Frederick E. Cope has been named president of the Salem Teachers' association, according to results announced today of an election held among the teachers recently.

Cope succeeds J. C. Guiler as president of the organization, which was founded a year ago to give teachers an organization through which to consider school finances and salaries.

Thelma Thomas was chosen vice president, Geraldine Floding, secretary and Ben Barrett, treasurer.

Cope will call a meeting of the executive committee in the near future to make committee appointments for the year.

David Lloyd George, Britain's Premier In World War 1 Dies

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, March 27.—Britain pushed aside the tumult of war today to pay tribute to David Lloyd George, her famed prime minister during the first world struggle who died last night at his farm home in North Wales.

The nation's leaders, press and public united in eulogizing the man who successfully led Britain through one war and in his later years tried to awaken her to the danger of a resurgent Germany.

Formal ceremonies in honor of the colorful statesman were planned in the house of commons. Prime Minister Churchill, who returned from a visit to the Western front, was expected to deliver a formal tribute on behalf of the government.

Viscount Cranborne, leader of the house of lords, will speak for the government there.

Gen. Patton Proves U. S. Tanks Superior To German Weapons

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., has fired a high-velocity volley of words and figures at "certain misguided or perhaps deliberately mendacious individuals" who criticize American tanks.

The War Department made public today a letter from the Third army commander to Lt. Gen. Thomas T. Handy, deputy chief of staff, in which Patton referred to reports that American tanks are not comparable with the German Panther or Tiger tanks. This, said Patton, "is wholly incorrect."

"Since the Third army started fighting the Germans last August German tank losses have been virtually double those of the Third—2,287 to 1,136," he said.

"These figures of themselves refute any inferiority of our tanks," Patton wrote, "but let me add that the Third army has always attacked, and therefore better than 70 per cent of our tank casualties have occurred from dug-in anti-tank guns and not enemy tanks, whereas a majority of the enemy tanks put out have been put out by our tanks."

Patton conceded that if an American Sherman medium tank were to engage in a fixed-place duel with a Tiger the Medium "would not last." But he insisted the purpose of the American tank is not to engage in a slug-fest match but to attack from the rear.

Eisenhower Hails Massive Defeat Of Enemy Forces

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, March 27.—American tanks burst into the open plains of middle Germany less than 244 miles from Berlin today through enemy lines which Gen. Eisenhower declared had been broken in a massive defeat.

Armor of the First and Third armies raced across the Reich unchecked, because—as Eisenhower said—the foe had insufficient strength with which to make a stand.

Hours ago, First army tanks launched into Weiburg, 244 miles southwest of Berlin. A dispatch filed later but shrouded by a censor blackout said the army made spectacular new gains in the continued sweep toward Berlin against opposition that had fallen apart. Thousands of German captives streamed to the rear.

The enemy said Third army columns were approaching Wuertzburg, in Bavaria 223 miles from Berlin, and had reached Lohr, 225 miles from the capital.

Wuertzburg and Lohr are barely more than 100 miles from Czechoslovakia, being rolled up by Russian armies charging in from the east.

In the north, the 21st army group was slugging out gains against collapsing German resistance in a prelude to what may become the decisive breakthrough of the campaign. Ninth army troops fought in the suburbs of Duisburg, within artillery range of such Ruhr industrial cities as Essen, Duesseldorf, Gelsenkirchen, Mulheim and Oberhausen.

The First army's dash—into open farm country in the heart of Germany—had outflanked the whole Ruhr.

The U. S. Seventh army, fighting south of the Third, was disclosed to have forced a 19-mile-long Rhine bridgehead north of outflanked Mannheim and driven it four miles into inner Germany in the first few hours. Seventh army prisoners in 12 days totaled 35,000.

Stuttgart-Hanover Highway Believed Cut

Lohr is 40 miles southeast of Frankfurt on the Main, where Patton's troops were fighting, and 21 miles northwest of the Bavarian city of Wuertzburg. The dash appeared to have cut the Stuttgart-Hanover highway, which a Berlin broadcast termed "the most vital communication back of the front."

Lohr lies more than halfway across Germany from Luxembourg to Czechoslovakia. A drive across southern Germany to the Russian lines some 250 miles east would throw a cordon over the top of the German resistance, strongest in the north, became so weakened that

Want To Go Into Business?

One of the oddities of trying to do business under government has cropped up in the ruling by United States District court of Philadelphia that Pullman Inc. has a year in which to dispose of part of its business. The judgment bears on a court decree of two years ago that the company was violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act through joint manufacture and servicing of sleeping cars. A year ago, Pullman was ordered to separate its business. The new order goes a step further: the company now must sell either its service unit, or its manufacturing business.

The oddity crops up in the argument by a special assistant attorney general that if no buyers are forthcoming, the company cannot withdraw from its own enterprise, though to remain in it would be in violation of the court's order. This argument apparently puzzled the court, too, because it refused to rule on the request. However, the company must obtain the consent of the court before it can sell what it cannot legally retain. The only solution to be proposed so far—purchase of the service unit by a combination of railroads—was opposed by government counsel and six labor organizations because it was "inadequate". If anyone wants to go into the Pullman car business, is able to round up the capital and command a vote of confidence in the proper places, that's all there is to it. Pullman Inc., which built up the business in the first place, can't get that green light in the right places which every business needs if it wants to stay in business.

Their Place In History

In correspondence from a young American non-commissioned officer who has had an exceptional chance to observe the attitude of our soldiers toward German civilians in towns now behind Allied lines, there appears this statement:

"You would be surprised—I know I was—to see the indifference with which the average American soldier contemplates these individuals being 'invaded' by our forces; it is an indifference which smacks neither of sympathy nor viciousness, but nevertheless in its obviousness is certainly suggestive of contempt. I know I personally feel contempt, a serious thing to write to you people at home, but I am sure that if you could be here on the stage with us where this infamy was produced, you would feel violent emotions yourself."

Our soldier's observations do not justify a generalization, but it is probable they reveal more about the place the Hitlerite Germans will occupy in history than some of the academic speculations currently in vogue. History always has reserved a special place for those who failed in plots of bloody violence—a place somewhere between fear and ridicule. The Hitlerite Germans have won and richly deserve the contempt of both their enemies and their allies. It may prove to be a curse more potent than the ambitious plans to disarm them; it may rob them for all time of the prestige which they valued so highly they over-reached themselves trying to get more. Certainly, it will bar any possibility after this war of another Count von Luckner lecturing in the United States on his skill in killing American boys. Something has happened to German prestige and what once passed for German dignity—something that can't be repaired.

A Permanent State of War

Whether Adolf Hitler will escape in the showdown, barricade himself in some mountain stronghold and carry on the war from there is not important. Hitler is only a battered symbol; the thing he symbolizes is what matters. He has been only the front man for Germany's permanent state of war.

The Allies must not make the mistake again of believing that the disintegration of a German military government signifies the end of German militarism. When Emperor William fled to Holland at the close of World War I, he left behind him in Germany the same tradition of conquest by force that he had served as the head of the state.

Hitler's last straw is the possibility the Allies again may drop their guard during his lifetime. Germany's last straw is the possibility the Allies may drop their guard during the lifetime of German ambition to rule by conquest.

The danger of resurgent militarism in Germany is not in the years following the end of World War II, but in the years beyond, when vigilance will be relaxed, when the Allies will drift apart—in the years when the shining dream of cooperative security will become the tawdry reality of international jealousies and conflicting ambitions.

The weakness of the Allies after World War I was their fatuous assumption that the war was over when the shooting stopped. Germans knew better; the war they were fighting then and the war they are fighting now was planned to last for centuries, if necessary.

Japan has declared long-term war, too. This will be the most important thing to remember and the easiest thing to forget when the shooting stops. If it isn't remembered the two nations whose ambition to rule by conquest has been openly confessed merely will get ready for the next shooting phase, which will be known as World War III.

The Statistical Follies

Statisticians are having one of their field days with the food supply. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, a sober, reliable source of figures to jungle, points out that if per capita meat consumption in 1945 by civilians is adjusted for a 12 per cent drop in estimates announced at the beginning of the year, the result would be 21 per cent less meat than in 1944, but only 8 per cent less than in the five-year period preceding the outbreak of the war in 1939. At the same time, per capita consumption of eggs would be 20 per cent more than it was in those lean days, consumption of chicken 15 per cent more, fresh fruit 3 per cent and 16 per cent more coffee.

But, like all statistics, these deal with what would be true if human beings lived statistically, not with what is true under a haphazard system which has some of us eating eggs like rampaging blacksnakes and commiserating with the butcher over the meat situation while others can't stand the sight of an egg but have found a way to get around the meat problem. For a true picture of the food situation, skip the statistics and drop in for supper, instead.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, March 28

AN extremely lively and exciting day, according to the lunar transit despite very real and concrete obstacles, delays, postponements and frustrations. The most dangerous of the latter may arise from crafty, subtle and underhand tactics, with envy, jealousy or hatred at the root. However, the energies, skills, talents and creative abilities are so definitely stimulated, with novel, audacious and exceptional ideas and plans ready for demonstration, that sinister purpose may be routed and brilliant coups put over. Radical change, travel, new associates, bring such goals with personal adventure, romance and thrills also in the picture.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a dramatic and disturbing day, in which far-reaching and radical adventure, experiences and enjoyments may materialize in strange projects, unique ideas, and ingenuity and skill in inaugurating curious or extraordinary ventures.

There may be stubborn obstacles, impediments, sinister and malicious combinations aimed at frustrating these high purposes. But such will be vanquished by ingenuity, bold strokes; clever strategies secure the support of influential persons or public bodies. Progress, romance and thrilling happiness are in sight.

A child born on this day may possess unique talents, mentality, ingenuity and creative ability, attracting support from those in high places in spite of antagonism, treachery and malice.

Columbia university reports that "Science of Man in the World Crisis" is outselling "Forever Amber" at the university book store. But we shan't write our editorial on The Changing Younger Generation until we hear that charts and graphs have replaced the pin-up girl on barracks walls.

If conditions today were as bad as too many people think, they'd be a lot worse than they are.

Various sections of the country are singing the praises of the best maple syrup in the world. That's the idea—pour it on thick!

An utter idiot is one who utters everything he hears in wartime.

Treatment With Penicillin Lozenges

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

All sorts of infections have been treated with the new wonder-working drug, penicillin. Now a method has been devised for using penicillin in treating infections of the mouth. An attempt to treat these infections with a penicillin spray had been tried previously, but was found to be unsatisfactory because the action of the penicillin is not lasting when the drug is used in this form.

Doctors Alexander B. MacGregor and David A. Long of England, therefore, decided to try the effect of penicillin in a lozenge. The lozenge was made of a gelatin base. Each lozenge was three-eighths of an inch square and one-eighth of an inch thick.

The patients treated were seen each day, so that the course of the diseases from which they suffered could be carefully followed. They were instructed to put one of the lozenges into the mouth and to leave it there until it had dissolved, without chewing or sucking it, and then to replace it with another.

The time for each lozenge to dissolve was three-quarters of an hour. The patients were told to put one of the lozenges into the mouth at night before going to bed and to use another one whenever they awakened. The lozenge has a slightly bitter taste but this was not found unpleasant.

Conditions Varied
The conditions treated included Vincent's angina or trench mouth, streptococcal tonsillitis, scarlet fever, infections in the mouth following operations, such as removal of the tonsils or injury to the bone and lining membrane of the mouth following a difficult tooth extraction.

A number of patients with trench mouth were treated with the penicillin lozenge. All of them became free of symptoms within 24 hours, including a number who had a great deal of pain, sleeplessness and fever.

In 48 hours, the ulcers or sores in the mouth had begun to heal and all active signs of inflammation

tion of the gums themselves had cleared up. Within five days the improvement was so great that treatment was stopped.

No patient had any other treatment and no recurrence of the infection occurred over a period of three and one-half months.

The cases of streptococcal tonsillitis treated became free of fever within 24 hours in most instances, and all were relieved of fever within two days. Within one day the local symptoms were greatly benefited. Since streptococcal tonsillitis causes sore throat, this relief is, of course welcome to the patient.

In a severe case of scarlet fever in one adult, the improvement was so great that within 24 hours was taking solid food satisfactorily while before treatment he had been unable to eat because of the pain.

It would appear that the penicillin lozenges are useful in preventing infections following mouth operations. This new method of administering penicillin in mouth conditions would appear to be entirely worth while.

Tomorrow, Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Nasal Catarrh."

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, March 28

AN extremely lively and exciting day, according to the lunar transit despite very real and concrete obstacles, delays, postponements and frustrations. The most dangerous of the latter may arise from crafty, subtle and underhand tactics, with envy, jealousy or hatred at the root. However, the energies, skills, talents and creative abilities are so definitely stimulated, with novel, audacious and exceptional ideas and plans ready for demonstration, that sinister purpose may be routed and brilliant coups put over.

Radical change, travel, new associates, bring such goals with personal adventure, romance and thrills also in the picture.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a dramatic and disturbing day, in which far-reaching and radical adventure, experiences and enjoyments may materialize in strange projects, unique ideas, and ingenuity and skill in inaugurating curious or extraordinary ventures.

There may be stubborn obstacles, impediments, sinister and malicious combinations aimed at frustrating these high purposes. But such will be vanquished by ingenuity, bold strokes; clever strategies secure the support of influential persons or public bodies. Progress, romance and thrilling happiness are in sight.

A child born on this day may possess unique talents, mentality, ingenuity and creative ability, attracting support from those in high places in spite of antagonism, treachery and malice.

Columbia university reports that "Science of Man in the World Crisis" is outselling "Forever Amber" at the university book store. But we shan't write our editorial on The Changing Younger Generation until we hear that charts and graphs have replaced the pin-up girl on barracks walls.

If conditions today were as bad as too many people think, they'd be a lot worse than they are.

Various sections of the country are singing the praises of the best maple syrup in the world. That's the idea—pour it on thick!

An utter idiot is one who utters everything he hears in wartime.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Treatment With Penicillin Lozenges

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

All sorts of infections have been treated with the new wonder-working drug, penicillin. Now a method has been devised for using penicillin in treating infections of the mouth. An attempt to treat these infections with a penicillin spray had been tried previously, but was found to be unsatisfactory because the action of the penicillin is not lasting when the drug is used in this form.

Doctors Alexander B. MacGregor and David A. Long of England, therefore, decided to try the effect of penicillin in a lozenge. The lozenge was made of a gelatin base. Each lozenge was three-eighths of an inch square and one-eighth of an inch thick.

The patients treated were seen each day, so that the course of the diseases from which they suffered could be carefully followed. They were instructed to put one of the lozenges into the mouth and to leave it there until it had dissolved, without chewing or sucking it, and then to replace it with another.

The time for each lozenge to dissolve was three-quarters of an hour. The patients were told to put one of the lozenges into the mouth at night, before going to bed and to use another one whenever they awakened. The lozenge has a slightly bitter taste but this was not found unpleasant.

The conditions treated included Vincent's angina or trench mouth, streptococcal tonsillitis, scarlet fever, infections in the mouth following operations, such as removal of the tonsils or injury to the bone and lining membrane of the mouth following a difficult tooth extraction. A number of patients with trench mouth were treated with the penicillin lozenge. All of them became free of symptoms within 24 hours, including a number who had a great deal of pain, sleeplessness, and fever.

In 48 hours, the ulcers or sores in the mouth had begun to heal and all active signs of inflammation.

tion of the gums themselves had cleared up. Within five days the improvement was so great that treatment was stopped.

No patient had any other treatment and no recurrence of the infection occurred over a period of three and one-half months. The cases of streptococcal tonsillitis treated became free of fever within 24 hours in most instances, and all were relieved of fever within two days. Within one day the local symptoms were greatly benefited. Since streptococcal tonsillitis causes sore throat, this relief is, of course, welcome to the patient.

In a severe case of scarlet fever in one adult, the improvement was so great that within 24 hours he was taking solid food satisfactorily, while before treatment he had been unable to eat because of the pain.

It would appear that the penicillin lozenges are useful in preventing infections following mouth operations. This new method of administering penicillin in mouth conditions would appear to be entirely worth while.

Tomorrow, Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Nasal Catarrh."

Death's BRIGHT DIAMONDS
by Lionel Mosher

XVIII.
After that dinner things began to happen. Eric discovered that his father was in the station wagon. Phineas Hudson rode on with Pat and Eric to make the telephone calls. Bruce Temple and Brenda departed almost immediately for home.
"Did you see Eric's face when he saw the sea wall, Charley said?"
"Yes," Charley fingered his chin reflectively. "I'd like to know when it was there."
"Temple?"
"Eric," I said. "Or Booker or Cal-estri."
"I don't suppose it would help much," Charley said. "Nick, did you know of your connection in the Hudsons?"
"He seemed to," I said. "He kept asking about the little girl on Bean Hill."
"I only saw him once," Charley said. "He was big, I noticed some-thing."
"Yes?"
"His feet," Charley said. "They were big." Charley said. "In fact, they were enormous."
"Lots of people have enormous feet," I said.
Charley looked at me shrewdly. "I knew what he was thinking. The application in the presence of those lovely and Hogdon shoes in the Hudson cellar, to say the least, stirring."
It was beginning to look as if Phineas Hudson was in on this somehow. That only confused matters. We might have pursued it further, but we heard a car wheeling along the gravel drive.
It was Cass Hapes. He approached with a look half-worried and half-determined.
"Well, Cass," I said, "you were right."
"Mind if I have a look in the cellar?" he asked.
Neither of us minded although we were not over-sanguine about the results. We took him to the cellar. He said:
"Where's this room?"
We showed him the room. He danced swiftly around.
"And the shoes?" he asked.
"I looked. The shoes were gone. Charley said: 'They were right here under the cot.'"

Hapes included us both in a withering glance of scorn.
"Why didn't somebody knuckle on to those?"
"I thought fingerprints—or something—" Charley shrugged weakly. "Fingerprints! With those shoes we didn't need fingerprints. There probably weren't more than four pairs that size stocked in all the stores in the city of Boston."
"Maybe they weren't bought in Boston," I suggested.
"I'd have liked the opportunity of finding that out. Now what about that fellow who entered your room last night, Mr. Trent?"
"Did Mr. Hudson tell you about that, too?"
"Mr. Hudson didn't tell me. Brenda Temple called."
Charley's head came up like a setter's. And I divined his thought. Why hadn't Mr. Hudson told Hapes?
"Well," I said, "he shot at me and missed; that's about all. He was tall and tough."
"He would be. You got his gun?"
"I pulled the gun out of my pocket and handed it over. Hapes registered disgust."
"You weren't so careful about fingerprints here."
"Look Cass," I began to froth a little at the mouth. "I wrestled for that gun. If I hadn't, there would have been some lovely prints on the gun—but no gun."
Hapes merely stared at me stolidly. Then surprisingly enough he passed it back.
"Know anyone who would want to kill you?"
"No."
"I do," Charley smiled brightly. Hapes did not smile back.
"Who?"
"A mechanic with eyes like shoe buttons and a knife-scar on his face."
"What's his name?"
"That's your job," answered Charley. He told Hapes the story of the tampering with his plane. Then he concluded: "but the guy who fired this gun wasn't after Nick; that is, not precisely."
"What do you mean—not precisely?"
"The shooting of that gun was a defensive act—just as the slugging in the basement. If that fellow had really wanted Nick out of the way, you'd have had your corpse and a nice fat murder to work on."
"I'll have the murder yet," said Hapes bluntly.
"Sorry to have disappointed you," I remarked.
"Listen, Mr. Trent," Hapes became quite earnest. "When you've been a general practitioner for 20 years, you don't need X-rays to detect the measles. You can smell 'em. Well, it's the same in police work. I can smell murder, and before long we'll have one."

Driving against an enemy apparently demoralized by the stunning advance of six Allied armies, German resistance is collapsing along a front stretching more than 200 miles. Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's pace-setting Third Army is far out in front in the race for Berlin, and has captured, intact, a bridge over the River Main, southeast of Frankfurt.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.
That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.
In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as worldwide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck, of him, physically and mentally.
He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came — "They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power which there came to him.
Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still is athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.
As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9,000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mental Physics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. R-600, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.—Adv.

And it was characteristic of his New England laconicism, that when he passed Pat and her father coming through the gate in the station wagon, his greeting was imperceptible from where I stood—if, in fact, there had been any greeting at all. Cass Hapes seemed not to like us.

Driving against an enemy apparently demoralized by the stunning advance of six Allied armies, German resistance is collapsing along a front stretching more than 200 miles. Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's pace-setting Third Army is far out in front in the race for Berlin, and has captured, intact, a bridge over the River Main, southeast of Frankfurt.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.
That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.
In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as worldwide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.
He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.
Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.
As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9,000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mental Physics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. R-600, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.—Adv.

OPA TIGHTENS 'C' GAS REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The OPA tightened today its regulations governing issuance of "C" gasoline coupons.

In addition to reducing gasoline consumption, the changes are designed to increase uniformity among local boards.

Some drivers now holding "preferred mileage" rations (C) will be placed in a new "semi-preferred" group; others will be eligible only for "B" rations.

The new regulations set up rigid tests for persons who travel to essential plants to give technical or specialized service. "C" rations will be granted only if the work is necessary to the primary function of such plants, and then only if the work is done under contract or specific request and paid for separately by the plant.

The new semi-preferred classification with a ceiling of 825 miles a month is established to cover some motorists now receiving "C" rations. If his work is necessary to an essential plant but does not meet the requirements of prior request and separate payment, a motorist may qualify for the new classification.

New restrictions have been placed on travel by construction or repair men where the work is connected with advertising or amusement, travel to recruit workers, and similar activities. In general only "B" rations will be issued for these activities.

DE PAUL TRIUMPHS OVER B. G., 71-54

Kill Tourney Jinx That Has Plagued Them For Three Seasons

NEW YORK, March 27. — DePaul's Demons from Chicago finally killed their New York basketball tournament jinx.

Coach Ray Meyer's quintet snared the National Invitation title by crushing Bowling Green, 71 to 54, in last night's final before 18,666 at Madison Square Garden.

Last year the Demons reached the final, but lost to St. John's in an upset. Two years ago Georgetown whipped them in the Eastern NCAA competition.

For a time it seemed the jinx would again ruin George Mikan and company. Ten-point favorites before the opening tossup, DePaul appeared behind the eight-ball which Bowling Green rushed into an early 12-point lead at 13-1.

But Big George, later picked as the outstanding player of the tournament with 120 points in three games, started to find the range, ably assisted by Whitey Kachan's pass interceptions. Within a few minutes DePaul had pulled up to tie at 20-20 and then lead, 30 to 22, at halftime. Bowling Green never was able to catch up.

Mikan tossed in 34 points on 15 field goals and four free throws. He outplayed the 6' 1" Don Otis who sparked the Ohioans to their early lead, although it was Don Whitehead with 17 points who did most of the scoring for B. G.

Coach Meyer planned to sit with the DePaul players at tonight's tussle between New York university and the Oklahoma Aggies for the NCAA championship. The winner meets DePaul for the mythical national title on Thursday.

One of Europe's gravest dangers lies in the scarcity of food throughout much of the continent, for hunger is one of the greatest breeders of unrest. Hitler recognizes this, for he is said to have issued orders to his picked troops to lay waste to the country as they retreat in the north towards the Alpine fortress. He has adopted this inhuman scheme to try to cause revolt against the Allies by starvation of his own people.

Even this brutal scheme has been anticipated by the Big Three, for plans have been made to feed the defeated Germans, guilty as she is—won't be allowed to starve, though it may be that lack of food now will cause deterioration of civilian morale and thus hasten the Reich's collapse. How far Hitler will succeed in his scorched earth program is open to question. The speed with which the Allies are advancing may upset this evil plot.

Hitler's gamble on European chaos won't come off.

Roosevelt termed the Chicago plan "to free the air for peaceful flight." Indications are that it, too, will be held up until the San Francisco deliberations are over.

Equally slow sliding has been encountered in the house banking committee by the Bretton Woods program.

The reciprocal trade agreement request appeared headed for a partisan tariff scrap. The trade agreements act expires in June.

The food and agriculture organization was proposed by an interim commission created by an international food conference at Hot Springs, Va., nearly two years ago.

Objectives

As set forth in the constitution, the objectives are to:

Raise nutrition levels and living standards.

Improve the efficiency of producing and distributing all food and agricultural products.

Better the conditions of rural people.

Contribute by these means to an expanding world economy.

Mr. Roosevelt said "it is in no sense a relief organization" and that its functions will be primarily "technical and advisory."

Forty-four nations will share its expenses. For the United States, the share will be 25 per cent, or $25,000,000 of the first year's budget of $2,500,000.

In succeeding years the budget is expected to be $5,000,000.

A general conference, which will meet annually, will govern FAO.

Between meetings, an executive committee will function.

Premier Vittorio Orlando of Italy as the only survivor of the famous "Big Four" of the Versailles peace conference. President Wilson died in 1924 and former Premier Clemenceau of France died in 1929.

From all over the world messages of condolence poured into the little Welsh village of Ty Newydd Llanystumdwy, where Lloyd George died in his sleep after an illness of several months.

Villagers said that the man who rose from poverty to become one of England's greatest historical figures died as he had desired—in his farmhouse near the Dwyfor river.

From the name of this stream Lloyd George took his title—the Earl of Dwyfor—when he was elevated to the peerage by King George VI last New Year's day.

The ex-prime minister, who never had exercised his right to sit in the house of lords, returned to the village of his birth last September. He was taken ill with influenza in January and never had fully recovered.

At his bedside when he died was his wife; his daughters, Lady Megan and Lady Carey Evans, and one of his two sons—Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, minister of fuel and power.

His heir, Maj. Richard Lloyd George, Viscount Gwynedd, is ill.

Make Married Nurses Subject To Induction

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The senate military committee today approved a house-passed nurse draft bill after amending the measure to make married nurses subject to induction.

The committee's action, which Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) said was without a dissent, came during a closed meeting at which the committee also approved another house-passed measure extending the Selective Service act a year from May 15.

The nurse draft bill, as it left the house, called for the induction of unmarried nurses, age 20 to 45 and provided that they be offered army or Navy commissions.

With a view to basing exemptions on dependency, rather than marriage alone, the senate committee made the drafting applicable to "married women whose marriage occurred prior to March 15, 1945."

Bill On New Debt Limit Is Approved In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Legislation raising the debt limit to $300,000,000,000 sped to the White House today.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The senate military committee today approved a house-passed nurse draft bill after amending the measure to make married nurses subject to induction.

The committee's action, which Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) said was without a dissent, came during a closed meeting at which the committee also approved another house-passed measure extending the Selective Service act a year from May 15.

The nurse draft bill, as it left the house, called for the induction of unmarried nurses, age 20 to 45 and provided that they be offered army or navy commissions.

With a view to basing exemptions on dependency, rather than marriage alone, the senate committee made the drafting applicable to "married women whose marriage occurred prior to March 15, 1945."

One suspect was arrested in the cellar of the plant, while his alleged companion was found on the second floor while searching for wine, police said.
